Overview

This Quick Reference Guide covers sending Terms and Conditions (T&C) to a Salesforce account contact for signature. Customers must agree and sign off on Terms and Conditions for each product they purchase.

Before You Begin

- Determine if you need to send a Terms and Conditions agreement: If the customer is sent a custom agreement, standard agreement or I/O, the Terms and Conditions for the products purchased are already included in those agreements. A separate T&C is not needed.
- Determine products purchased: If the customer is purchasing only rate card products and is not using an I/O, the customer must sign off on the Terms and Conditions for each product they intend to purchase/have purchased.

Generating the Terms and Conditions

Step 1: Start agreement on account

Open the Account Detail page in Salesforce for the account that will receive the agreement for signature. Click Send Agreement.

Step 2: Select type of agreement

Select Terms and Conditions Only. Click Next.

Step 3: Select the signing contact

Select the account contact to sign the contract. This does not have to be the billing contact. It must be the person at the account responsible for signing contracts--the person with the quill pen. Click Next.

Full Name	Email	Contact Role
☒ Christine Perry	cperry@localiq.com	Marketing Contact
☐ Christopher Magness	cmagness@gannett.com	Marketing Contact

IMPORTANT

If the signing contact is not displayed as an existing contact on the account, you must create a new one. Use these steps below.

Step 3a: Use the new contact option

If the signer is a new contact, use the New Contact option. Click to turn on the slider.

Step 3b: Enter new contact details

Enter the contact's First Name, Last Name and Email Address. Select the Contract Role, then click Next.

Step 4: Select the Terms and Conditions products

Select the product(s) the customer has purchased or intends to purchase. At least one product must be selected.

TIP

Third Party Media refers to non-company advertising inventory sold as an agency on the customer's behalf through external media partners. Only a handful of markets sell these deals. They must be vetted by Finance/Legal.

Step 5: Choose Online or PDF

Choose whether to send the customer an online version of the Terms and Conditions or a physical PDF copy. Some customers require a physical hard copy. Click Send Terms and Conditions.

Step 6: Preview the agreement

Review the agreement details. If anything needs to be updated, click Previous to move back through the screens. Once everything is correct, click Send Terms and Conditions.

The screenshot shows a window titled "Send Agreement". At the top, there is a progress bar with three steps: the first two are completed (indicated by checkmarks) and the third, "Terms and Conditions", is the current step (indicated by a dark blue background). Below the progress bar, a red text block reads: "Please ensure that all information listed below is accurate. If some of the information is not accurate, click on the 'Previous' button so you can go back and correct the information. Once all the information is accurate, click on the 'Send Terms and Conditions' button to complete the process and send the contract to your customer." Below this, there is a dropdown menu labeled "Terms and Conditions" with a downward arrow. Underneath, the information is displayed in two columns. The left column contains: "Account Name" (Test Customer), "Account Number" (DBN_1052118), and "Contact Name". The right column contains: "Terms and Conditions Type:" (You selected Online), "Terms and Conditions Selected:" (Digital Marketing Services, Print Advertising). At the bottom right, there are two buttons: "Previous" and "Send Terms and Conditions".

Step 7: Confirmation

The T&C is sent to the advertising customer contact for signing. A confirmation page is displayed.

The screenshot shows the same "Send Agreement" window, but the progress bar now has four steps, with the fourth, "Confirmation", being the current step (indicated by a dark blue background). The main content area features a large purple Adobe PDF icon on the left. To its right, the text reads: "Terms and Conditions Only Has Been Sent." Below this, it says: "You can access the contract record here." and "You can close this window." At the bottom right, there is a "Close" button.

Step 8: Open the contract

Click the blue here link to see the contract. For future details on viewing the contract, see the Viewing the Agreement Quick Reference.

Parts of the Terms and Conditions

Advertising Terms and Conditions/Addendums

The terms and conditions in the agreement apply to the specific products included in the contract. Addendums are added based on the products selected during the send process.

IMPORTANT

Ad processing fees are generally mentioned in Addendum A when print/digital display is included. However, the specific amounts are not included in contract pricing because discounts apply during billing. Discuss these fees UP FRONT in initial customer conversations or you may be taking a few dollars out of your own wallet for them!

Signature Area

The bottom of the contract shows signature lines for the advertising customer contact (Advertiser). If the advertising contact is associated with an agency, the contact should sign in the Agency area. The salesperson and his/her manager should sign in the Publisher Representative area.

Common Issues

The advertiser contact is trying to sign and cannot get past the Next arrow.	The advertiser contact must click on the General Terms and Conditions link to actually read the agreement before signing.
The contact stays at draft even after it is sent.	The salesperson sending the contact should submit a ServiceDesk ticket to check that he/she has AdobeSign permissions.
The contract needs to be edited once it is sent.	Existing/sent contacts cannot be edited. Follow the send process above to send a new one.
